FROM THE LEAN DATA SPRINT
SEPTEMBER 2017
TOP ACTIONABLE INSIGHTS

1. SATISFACTION AND VALUE PROP
   Your Net Promoter Score – a common metric of satisfaction – for learners, alumni and tutors is 62, 62, and 54 respectively, which is excellent. Learners and alumni value improved marks and soft skill development. Tutors value the opportunity to help others and give back.

2. IKAMVAYOUTH MODEL FEEDBACK
   73% of learners and 79% of tutors feel the attendance requirement is “just right”. Results were split on kick-out frequency between every term & every year. Feedback on choosing how many sessions to attend also split, but overall, Learners and Tutors thought there should not be a choice. Learners were open to tutors helping out in after-school sessions.

3. SOCIAL IMPACT RESULTS
   Social impact results were extremely strong, with over 95% of learners, tutors and alumni saying quality of life has improved because of IkamvaYouth. Outcomes were diverse.
Among learners and alumni, IkamvaYouth’s Net Promoter Score is 62; learners value improved marks & help with life plan and alumni value the opportunity to help others & give back.

The NPS is a gauge of customer satisfaction. It asks the question “On a scale of 0-10, how likely are you to recommend IkamvaYouth to a friend or colleague?” The “Net” score is calculated in the following way:

\[ \text{NPS} = \% \text{ promoters} - \% \text{ detractors} \]

Anything above 50 in considered excellent. A negative score is considered poor. Apple, Amazon, and Netflix have net promoter scores of 66, 66 and 64 respectively. IkamvaYouth’s score of 62 is brilliant.
We also ask respondents to explain their score, which yields insights on value proposition:
